PEOPLE'S TICKET!

For Magistrate:

A. H. CRESWELL.

For Clerk:
CHAS. W. BRADSHAW.

D. G. MAXWELL.
WM. E. STITT.

To-day is to decide of what stuff the Conservatives of this Township are made. Truth, Justice and Virtue can bear defeat and still live; but to compromise with error is not only worse than defeat, but annihilation. Conservative Republican in Virginia and Mississippi has a meaning, and it was right for the true men to rally upon Walker, and, by electing him, defeat the schemes of the proscriptors. When the Virginia election came off, negro suffrage was a fixed fact, and it was worse than idleness to contend against it. When our Constitution was submitted to the voters of this State, it was an open question. Neither Walker nor any of his friends in Virginia went for negro suffrage primarily, but accepted it as a fact accomplished. Here Holden had his friends forced it upon us, and now because they have the power they say to the Conservatives, you must take some of the most respectable of us, or negroes and Yankees will be elected. Who is to blame for this state of affairs? Why the few intelligent ones of the Radical party; for had they cooperated with Govs. Vance, Graham and others, the Constitution could have been voted down, and a much more liberal one framed by the Legislature composed of respectable property holders been elected. It is to these same men, who now wish to be called Conservative-Republicans that the responsibility for all the corruption, high taxation and degradation of the Judiciary properly belong.

It is not popular so to write. We know it and don't care a fig for it. The true men of the country approve what we write, and it is for them that it is written. Now we wish it distinctly understood that for one we are opposed to all compromise looking to the promotion of those who worked for the election of Holden and the adoption of the present State Constitution. If these gentlemen wish to cut loose from the proscriptors, we will receive them with outstretched hands as co-laborers in the ranks; but their conversion is too sudden to entitle them to be entrusted as leaders.

It is only another shuffling preparatory to a new deal for office. These Radicals who failed to receive their reward for those years of office as of limited duration, are the ones who are in favor of a compromise. Let Conservatives stand firm and vote as a unit for a straight-out Conservative ticket, and if respectable Radicals are sincere let them vote for the best men, and in that way they can show their faith by their works. Why cannot the genteel Radicals unite with the Conservatives, as well as for Conservatives to unite with them? Most we always play an open-and-shut game? Must we allow the ticket to be so formed that whichever may be elected the Radicals must win? We shall be caught in no such trap.

THE CONTEXT in Tennessee is at this moment, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, drawing the fire of the Radical organs. None of them doubt the election of Senter; but Stokes and his partisans, driven to the wall, are seeking in advance to make up a new Congress. They find a ready and industrious tool in the correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, who was recently discharged from the Army and Times, in which newspaper he devoted himself to the interest of Governor Senter, making his editorial for Tennessee and his letters for Ohio agree perfectly in their abuse of Stokes. This correspondent captured Atlanta on paper six weeks before the troops of the Union captured it in fact; and his opinion of men and affairs in Tennessee is entitled to about as much consideration as his army correspondence, which was poetical, long-haired and valiant. The New York Times and the Cincinnati Commercial understand the case better than the Gazette, which seems resolved not to understand it. Senter is not a Democrat certainly; but he will be good enough Democrat, we suspect, by the time the Radicals are done with him.

It is said that the negroes of Mississippi will vote for the anti-Radical ticket there, in as large a proportion as they did in Virginia, if not to even a much greater extent. They are beginning to say that they have "got 'bout 'nuff" of Radical promises—that they have had plenty of them, but that "they ain't done nothin'" what day said they would—that "day said they would gin 'em forty acres an' a mule, but dey ain't seed not one acre yet, and not eben a hear of de mule's tail."

Thus convinced of the breach of faith in the matter of farms and mules, the colored people of Mississippi are coming round in great numbers to the support of their old masters, who "never promised 'em nothin'", an' who can't do no wasser for 'em den de Radicals has done."

Intelligence was received in Petersburg yesterday of the death, at the Union Theological Seminary, of the Rev. Samuel B. Wilson, D. D., President of and for many years one of the Professors in that Institution. He died on Sunday morning at the advanced age of eighty-six.

AN ENORMOUS FARM.—A Lafayette (Indiana) correspondent writes to the Cincinnati Gazette that there is a corn field in Benton county, Ind., of seven thousand acres, in good condition and growing splendidly. This field is to be found on the farm of Adams Earl, Esq., who resides in La Fayette.

"Messrs. Earl and Fowler have a farm of thirty thousand acres in Benton county, in one body, well watered and with permanent improvements, having one hundred and forty miles of hedge fence and sixty-five miles of board fence, thirty dwelling houses for tenants, three blacksmith shops, &c. To cultivate the corn lands one hundred and sixty-nine one and two horse plows were kept in daily use, and on the pasture lands forty-one hundred head of cattle are now feeding for the New York market, and will be shipped this fall by rail. Messrs. Earl and Fowler gave their personal supervision to the farm, besides attending to their separate interests, the former a jobbing merchant and the latter a banker."

A New York paper, speaking about the importation of canary birds from Germany, says the following sight was seen in Florence, Italy, in 1861, by a lady and gentleman belonging in New York.

In walking in the principal street they overtook a man with a long whip in his hand, which he was moving from one side to the other in what they thought was a strange manner. When they came up with him, they found he was driving a flock of canary birds, as in England they drive a flock of turkeys. A carriage came along, when the man waved his whip in a peculiar manner, when the little birds all went to the sidewalk until the carriage had passed, when they took to the street again. A woman wanted to buy one, when the man sprinkled some canary seed at his feet and half a dozen of them came to him, when he took one up in his hand and delivered it to the woman, who paid him one franc for it. The man then went on again.

A SAD MISTAKE.—The Barnwell Journal of Saturday says: "Miss Mary Lard, of Barnwell, died on Wednesday morning last from the effects of morphine, taken by mistake for quinine. She sent to the drug store of John S. Shuck for ten grains of quinine on the evening before. By mistake morphine was weighed out instead of quinine, and Miss Lard took the whole quantity and did not discover the mistake until too late. The aid of Dr. Ducau was summoned promptly, but she was so completely under the effects of the opiate that her life could not be saved. She died in a few hours after. We deeply sympathize with the afflicted family, and take occasion to say that the proprietors of the drug store are sorely distressed at this terrible accident."

STATE NEWS.

JURISDICTION OF JUSTICE.—JUDGE OF THE SPECIAL COURT.—We are about the following decision of the Special Court in the case of Mary McLaughlin from this county, which we are permitted to copy by Judge Cantwell. It will be seen that it is decided that in cases of larceny Justices of the Peace have no jurisdiction. Heretofore it was only by a very strong inference of what the law meant that they have been able to try these cases. It will be seen also that the Judge of the Special Court has no right to issue a writ of habeas corpus in a case beyond the jurisdiction of his Court, which extends not to cases of larceny. The defendant mistook her remedy in not applying to a Judge of the Superior Court for the proper writ.

The decision is as follows:
N. C. SUPREME COURT.—JURY TRIAL.
Mary McLaughlin,) vs.)
The State.)
Special Court.

Dice, J.—A Justice of the Peace has no jurisdiction to try a person charged with the offense of larceny. State vs. Jarvis, at this term.

The defendant was, therefore, improperly convicted, and imprisoned, but she has mistaken her remedy. She ought to have appealed to the Superior Court, from the judgment of the Justice, or have applied to a Judge of the Superior Court for a writ of habeas corpus, as they have general jurisdiction in all cases of unlawful imprisonment.—Act of 6th April, 1869.

The jurisdiction of the Special Court of Wilmington is limited to the trial of misdemeanors committed within the corporate limits of said city.—City of Wilmington vs. Davis, at this term. The power of the Judge of said Special Court to issue writs of habeas corpus, conferred by Act of 1868 Chap. 12, sec. 17, is confined to criminal cases within his jurisdiction, and cannot be extended by implication to cases which he cannot hear and determine. He has no jurisdiction in cases of larceny. State vs. Haughton, at this term. His Honor therefore had no power to issue the writ of habeas corpus in this case, and the proceedings are dismissed.

LARGE COTTON PLANT.—A friend informs us of the existence of a large and most productive cotton plant on the plantation of Capt. J. C. McMillan at Peachey's Depot, Duplin county. This plant has fully 176 blossoms, bolls and forms—of which 79 are full grown blossoms. This is by far ahead of any stalk we have yet heard of in the State.—Id.

OAK HILL, GRANVILLE CO., N. C.
July 29th 1869.

Mr. Josiah Turner, Dear Sir: You will observe many items through the columns of your valuable paper, what will be the tax on the distillation of Fruit. They say that they have the fruit and they want to avail themselves of every opportunity to meet their oppressive taxes this fall. They have in vain inquired of the Revenue officers; they don't seem to know what it will be.

REPLY.—After diligent enquiry we find the following course to be necessary for the legal distillation of fruit: first, register the still; second, have it surveyed (probably we suppose, means gauged); third, pay a tax of fifty dollars per annum, which is thirty-seven and a half dollars till next May; fourth you must keep books; fifth, pay two dollars a day for every day the still is run, and sixth; pay fifty cents per gallon on every gallon of brandy distilled. We are of the opinion that this routine amounts nearly to prohibition to all who have but small orchards.—Sentry.

EMIGRANTS COMING.—Several gentlemen from the North have been in this city, by invitation of the N. C. Land Company, and visiting different parts of the State for the past week, with a view to taking observations and locating lands for emigrants. They represent numbers of families who will come to our State, bringing money and enterprise if a favorable report is made to them. We are glad to learn that these gentlemen are generally pleased with the prospects and will make a favorable report. One of them is instructed to locate lands for a settlement of fifteen families. Let them all be welcomed, and soon a tide will flow in and the waste places be made to blossom as the rose.

A friend writing us from a neighboring county says: "We are all right side up, and are presenting a bold front. The rads want a compromise, but we have none for them. If they choose to come to us they will be welcome, but we can't compromise. They are disorganized and some of them, mad at the taxes, are out with an independent ticket for township officers. They have quit singing 'Rally round the flag, boys,' and in twelve months more I honestly don't believe they will master a corporal's guard. The League about here is dying of a rapid decline."

We don't doubt it. No people on the footstool could long bear what we are bearing. It would crush a race of giants. The people are beginning to feel; the pocket nerve has been touched, and nervous generally are very delicate things to fool with. We say to our friends everywhere now is the time to welcome the better disposed of our late opponents into the great conservative wigwag.—Asheville News.

Washington Letter.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, August 1, 1869.

The Radicals are steadily gaining about the result of the election in Tennessee next Thursday, and place great reliance on the Radical results to the Stokes party upon the recent letters of Postmaster-General Creswell and Secretary Boutwell. If they lose Tennessee, all hopes of carrying Mississippi and Texas will fade, and the party disintegration in the North will follow much more speedily than otherwise. They claim that at the Cabinet meeting on Friday last it was determined to enter into a thorough proscription of all officials who do not work in the ultra Radical harness; but other than the assertions in the effect, and the changes in all the departments which have already been made, there does not seem to have been any effort of the President in the way of punishing Conservative Republicans. The Tennessee Radicals are represented very strongly here, though three or four self-styled representatives of the Mississippi and Texas extreme Republican parties have been hovering around for some time endeavoring to effect various removals of good men from office on the ground that the Republican party demands it. They forget that the tenure-of-office bill is not entirely abolished even if the President was disposed to listen to them.

Nobody seems to know when Grant will return, but it is thought he will be in Washington in about ten days. He is doubtless very tired of the representations which these industrious southern Radicals have been making concerning what the party in the South requires. It is possible that there will be some distinct manifestation of the regard the President has for the situation of the South in answer of the message to Congress.

PRESIDENT GRANT IS SEARCH OF A BREAKFAST.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald is responsible for the following:

The White House is in a topsy-turvy condition just now, and the servants, in imitation of their master and mistress, are taking a little recreation. When the President arrived this morning his reception was rather cold and disheartening after the honing at Long Branch. About 8 o'clock he sallied forth, like an ordinary government clerk, in search of his breakfast. He was resolved to patronize one of the fashionable establishments, probably with a view to getting a breakfast that would equal his some degree of Long Branch. He halted up at Walker's, which is a short distance from the White House. The President was on foot and was dressed as usual in a black slab-tailed frock coat and a tall, black stovepipe hat. Going up the steps he looked in at the dining room, where a gentleman was sitting at breakfast. Grant had a bewildered air about him, as if he had got into the wrong shop.

"Good morning, General," said the gentleman at breakfast, recognizing him.

Grant nodded mechanically, and muttered something that sounded like "Good morning," all the time keeping his eyes at work, as if looking for a place to sit down. Finally he went up to the desk of the restaurant and accepted the genius who "takes your money."

Grant—"I want a private room, and breakfast as soon as possible."

Peter (ejecuting the General's narrowly, as if to measure the length of his purse).—"You can't have a private room here, sir. There's the dining room," pointing to the room where the gentleman already mentioned was quietly enjoying his breakfast and coffee.

The President looked confused and astonished at the idea of his not being considered good for his breakfast like any other man. He at once turned and beat a rapid retreat out of the house, evidently disgusted with his reception. When he had gone, the gentleman in the dining room called Peter, and enquired if he knew who that person was.

Peter—"No, sir."

Gentleman—"Peter, that is President Grant."

Peter—"The devil, you say?"

Gentleman—"Yes, indeed."

Peter—"Why don't he come like a gentleman, in a carriage, and not like an old shoemaker with his Sunday clothes on! How did I know he had money enough to pay for a private room and his breakfast?"

The gentleman who seems to have scared Grant out of the dining room, and per consequence, out of his breakfast, is a well known radical politician and author, who was the intimate friend of President Pierce and Buchanan, and who has dined and breakfasted with some of the great men in his day. A wag who was at hand suggested that hereafter when the President is lying around loose in search of his breakfast he should have a label to his coat with the inscription "I am Grant, President of the United States."

A couple in Grafton, N. H., who have lived together forty-four years, and had fifteen children, now want to be divorced.

The number of poles exiled and imprisoned for participating in the last rebellion amounts to 140,000, most of whom are sent to Siberia.

Andrew Johnson is repudiated by the Senter men in Tennessee, but, unlike the well-bred dog, he takes but will not understand the kick.

The seats in Robinson's Circus fell at Jamestown, Pa., on Friday last. Mrs. Henry Weaver was seriously injured by wrenching her spine. One of the managers deposited $2,000 as indemnity for the results of the accident.

We are authorized to announce the name of R. J. WALKER as an independent candidate for Constable of Charlotte Township in the coming election.

JOHN MCCONNELL respectfully announces himself an independent Candidate for Magistrate of the Charlotte Township.

Charlotte Cotton Market.

COMMENCED DAILY BY STEPHENS, MACFARLANE & CO. 101 N. 3rd St. CHARLOTTE, N. C. August 4, 1869.

COTTON.—Saleable day 3 bales at 30 to 31 cents. Market quiet.

On the morning of July 29th, 1869, in Marshall County, Miss. JOSEPH C. GRIFFIN, son of Col. James A. and Mary A. Griffin, aged 13 months and 14 days.

Died in Hospital, on the 15th, of July, of brain fever; IAN PARKS, son of R. B. and Rebecca W. Hunter, aged 6 years, 9 months and 13 days. He was a bright and promising boy, and his sweet ways and interesting prattle, made him the darling of his parents. Suffer little children, be true to the King of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Conditions of Health. It is little to expect health if the precursors necessary to secure it are neglected. The human organization is a delicate piece of mechanism, and requires as much intelligent care and watchfulness to keep it in order, as are requisite in the management of the most complicated combination of letters, wheels, pistons.

At this season of the year the body is peculiarly sensitive, because it is greatly weakened and relaxed by the continuous heat. The skin, in summer, with its millions of pores wide open, is a very different thing from that which it becomes under the action of the winter's cold. The muscles, too, are comparatively flaccid, the nervous system, the blood poor, and the whole frame less capable of enduring fatigue and resisting disease, than in cool weather. These indications of a depressed condition of the vital forces are so many unmistakable hints that nature needs relieving.

Ordinary stimulants will not effect this object. They inflame and excite, but do not strengthen. The only preparation which can be depended upon to impart stimulant vigor to the system, and enable it to endure the heated term, without giving way under the pressure, is HOTTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a tonic and corrective so pure, so harmless, so utterly free from the drawbacks which render many of the powerful astringents employed in medical practice more dangerous than the ailments they are employed to cure, that it may be administered without fear to the feeblest female invalid, or the most delicate child. The cathartic and alterative vegetable ingredients, which are combined with those of a tonic nature in its composition, keep the bowels moderately free and perfectly regular, while the work of invigoration is going on. The finest blood purifiers which the herbaling kingdom affords are also among its components, so that it recruits, purifies and regulates the system simultaneously.

ARE NOW RECEIVING A NEW STOCK OF DRY-GOODS & GROCERIES.

About the 1st of July, 1888, a communication was received in this city from Mr. Holden, to the effect that your humble servant had been appointed Justice of the Peace, which commission I publicly declined to accept for many reasons which I will not here make to enumerate; but will only give one,—I felt that I was not qualified to discharge the duties of the office. Then came the most trying time of my short life. Committee of
